

MASTERCLASS

In Missional Church

ANDY
STANLEY

We know that when people say they “felt the Spirit moving,” it probably means the room was full and the music was good.

We know the difference between giftedness and godliness.

We know that the best performers usually build the biggest churches but not necessarily the healthiest ones.

We decided to get into the unchurched people market.

We were just the only church designed from the ground up to capture the imaginations of unchurched people.

We make sure we stay in the unchurched people market.

QUESTION ONE

As far as you can tell, to whom do unchurched people typically look as their most trusted authorities?

What are the strongest influences on their moral values and ethical standards?

What holds them back from exploring faith?

What evidence for his have you detected in conversations you've had with them?

QUESTION TWO

Among the unchurched in your community, what's the typical attitude you're sensing toward Jesus as a historical person?

QUESTION THREE

How would you summarize the need you sense in your church for a wiser, more intentional approach to reaching the unchurched people of your community?
